How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

Notwithstanding a short-lived volatility spike and equity market reversal in early August, both equities and bonds began the period on a firm footing, supported by a relatively benign inflation and growth backdrop, and interest rate cuts in the US, Europe and the UK. The mood changed in the final quarter with strong economic data out of the US culminating in increased uncertainty about the prospects for further US rate cuts in 2025, leading to a decline in bonds despite the cut in rates by the Federal Reserve in September. Elsewhere economic weakness in China and Europe weighed on international equity and commodities markets going into year end while the S&P 500 Index continued to act independently of other markets. The Super Institutional Share Class returned +0.87% for the period ended December 31, 2024. Discretionary Macro strategies were the largest contributor to performance, capturing the pivot in markets in the final quarter of the year. Dynamic Asset Allocation also added to returns, with gains from equities, whilst Diversifying Strategies were a small detractor.
